From: Alex Krislov (SL17), 76703,243
To: Roger Bruce Feinman, 75530,3540
Topic: Worst Evidence
Msg #85919
Section: Coventry [17]
Forum: Political Debate+
Date: Tue, May 25, 1993, 1:37:27 PM

Date: Wednesday, June 2, 1993

The "conclusion" is an obvious personal attack, of course, but it's also hilarious. It's hilarious because you've just condemned him for taking an arduous three-year period to rewrite the book--AND condemned him for writing parts of it too swiftly to suit you!

A few paragraphs later, you're doing your Kreskin imitation again: "Don't make the mistake of thinking [that Lifton] didn't understand at every point the manipulations, fabrications and rationalizations he was in engaging in for the sake of getting this book published."

[continued in the reply]